At this point this bracero I was interviewing shoves a $20 bill in my hand and tells me "I have been trying to get you alone all morning so that I could give you this money. I want to get recontracted." I told him he would have to see somebody else. He said, "Tell me the name of the person I have to see." I said I don't know. He kept on telling me to take the money anyway, all he wanted was a recommendation from me. I told him to get away from me and if he wanted to get recontracted to go to the Main building.

This man acted very suspicious from the first moment we started talking. He had already been hanging around the medical barracks for a while. I figure this was some kind of a set-up.

Since I couldn't help him he wanted to know the name of a person that could. Sounds fishy!

I told Porter and he said there is something fishy going on around here because the same things have been happening to his boys. He said he is going to get to the bottom of this to see who is sending these guys over here, or else to see who is getting the bribes. Porter looked for the guy, but he couldn't find hime. He reported all this to Mex. Consul.
